

Synopsis

Johnny Green fixes things. Broken doors. Broken homes. Broken lives. It's how he survives.

But when his wife Susan dies in what appears to be a routine car accident, he is left facing the one thing he cannot fix: his own grief. Everything changes when he discovers a note she left behind: "If anything happens to me, find the truth."

Reluctantly, Johnny begins to look closer, and what he finds doesn't add up. Records have been altered. Small details begin to fracture the official story. With the help of Angel, Susan's closest friend, Johnny follows the trail into a hidden world of quiet surveillance and controlled narratives, where truth is not erased but rewritten. The deeper he goes, the more the investigation turns toward those closest to him and toward a dark military past he has long buried, shaped by guilt, grief, and things he was never meant to survive. What Susan uncovers may be tied to something far bigger than either of them understand. Now, Johnny must decide how far he is willing to go for the truth knowing that some answers don't bring closure... they bring consequences.